

1. David under the weather

David: Oh, hello, Red! Oh, hello, Holly!

Red: David? David?

Red: David – sick.

David: I'm OK, Red. I'm fine.

Holly: I think you need to go to the Doctor's.

David: Oh, don't worry, Holly. I'm fine. I really am.

Red: David – Doctor!

Holly: You really do need to go to the Doctor's.

David: Oh, no... I'm fine...

Red: David – Doctor!

David: Don't worry. I'm fine, Red.

Red: One, two, three: Doctor!

David: OK, OK.

2. In the waiting room

Red: David, David!

David: What, Red?

Red: Look! Sick!

David: I know he's sick, Red... Everbody here is sick...

Red: David sick. Sick, sick.

Doctor: Mr David?

David: Oh! That's me! Hello, Doctor!

Doctor: Hello. Who's this?

David: Oh, he's with me.

Red: My name is Red.

Doctor: Red, are you sick?

Red: No! Red – healthy and fine!

Doctor: Well, would you like to come with me?

David: Yes, please, Doctor.

3. Under examination

Doctor: Open your mouth, please...

Doctor: Stick your tongue out... and say “ahhhhh”...

Doctor: Follow my finger with your eyes.

Doctor: Now, can you lift your arm up, please?

David: My arm?

Doctor: Yes. Your arm.

Doctor: OK... Mr David, you're very ill...

David: Doctor! What's wrong with me?

Doctor: You have a cold.

David: A cold?

Doctor: Yes, a cold.

David: Is that all?

Doctor: That's all... I have some tablets... Now, I want you to take one of these a day, and in a couple of days you'll be fine. OK?

David: OK.

Doctor: Now, the best time to take these is in the morning with breakfast, then I want you to get plenty of bedrest, drink lots of water, and just take it easy. OK, Mr David?

David: OK, Doctor.

Red: One of these every day?!

David: Yes, Red. Every day.

Red: Ooooo!

David: I'll do that, Doctor.

Red: I'm sick!

Doctor: Really?

Red: Yes!

David: Red? What's the matter?

Red: My arms hurt.

David/Doctor: Really?

Red: Yes, my legs hurt.

David/Doctor: Really?

Red: Yes, and my head hurts.

David/Doctor: Really?

Doctor: OK. We'd better take a look at Red. Will you come over here, please?

4. Red under examination

Doctor: OK, Red. If you lie down for me... Now open your mouth... Stick out your tongue... OK... Just say “ahhhh”... Now follow my finger with your eyes... Oh, Red... OK! Lift your arm up... Red, I’m sorry... You’re not ill... You’re very well...

Red: But – Red – sick!

Doctor: No, Red. You’re well.

Red: Yes. Sick.

Doctor: I’m sorry, Red...

Red: But – Red – medicine!

David: Red? Are you OK?

Red: No! Red – medicine! Red – one every day!

David: Red, these aren’t sweets! They’re medicine.

David: But, Red, you’re not sick!

Red: Sick! Sick!

David: But medicine is for sick people.

Red: Medicine!

Doctor: OK, Red. I have some medicine for you... Here’s some medicine for you, Red...

5. A sunny day

David: How are you feeling, Red?

Red: I’m feeling fine. And you?

David: Oh, Red, I feel great!

THE END
